Georgia Market Brief reader guide

Use with the original dated Brief

The historical Brief follows this portable reader guide. Its original publication date and selected-profile scope remain unchanged. This correction is included for entitled buyers of that same edition without an additional edition purchase. Read the following governing correction before relying on older wording. No Intelligence workbook is included with this standalone Brief.

Governing published correction

Correction dated October 5, 2026

Read with: September 27, 2026 Market Brief V1.2.

Gwinnett maintenance was a recommendation

The August 4, 2026 work-session agenda, page 5, item 2026-0838, proposes a $655,359.86 helicopter-maintenance renewal ceiling and a separate $279,534.69 ratification. The review did not establish the final vote, executed contract or payment. Earlier Brief approval, 5-0 vote and completed-ratification wording should be treated as unverified. Do not add the amounts together or infer delivered work.

Official work-session agenda

Atlanta authorization and earlier coverage

The City of Atlanta 2022 Accountability Report, page 31, reports a $10 million emergency authorization for two helicopters and one conversion. It does not establish a signed manufacturer contract, delivery, completed conversion or current availability. The September Brief remains an 11-profile snapshot; its earlier county-screen milestone is not the expanded October workbook's scope.
