North Carolina Market Brief reader guide

Use with the original dated Brief

The historical Brief follows this portable reader guide. Its original publication date and selected-profile scope remain unchanged. This correction is included for entitled buyers of that same edition without an additional edition purchase. Read the following governing correction before relying on older wording. No Intelligence workbook is included with this standalone Brief.

Governing published correction

Correction dated October 5, 2026

Read with: September 27, 2026 Market Brief V1.2.

Jackson statistics retain their source period

The March 4, 2025 minutes call the presentation 2024 statistics and report five drone deployments, without expressly defining a calendar or fiscal period. That qualifies the earlier Brief's fiscal wording. The later February 2026 source was not freshly retrieved in the correction; no new total is inferred.

Appropriations, purchases and operation differ

Morehead City's $36,000 package includes a $32,700 appropriated change and $3,300 reserved for future appropriation. Document inclusion does not independently establish execution or delivery. NCDOT's historical pilot report records $18,853.80 and $23,500 purchases within the $42,353.80 UAV subtotal and larger mixed totals. They must not be added again or treated as a current fleet inventory.

The eleven-profile Brief retains its September scope. The October county discovery work is not proof of a complete fleet census or absence of services.
